Oakland School Officials' Expenses Need Strict Scrutiny

Sen. Nancy Cassis lauds Rep. Ruth Johnson's Efforts

LANSING – The questionable use of public money by Oakland County Intermediate School District (ISD) board members and administrators deserves the attention it has received by state Rep. Ruth Johnson and the media, said fellow Oakland County lawmaker Senator Nancy Cassis on Tuesday.

“Rep. Johnson has demonstrated her concern and leadership in pursuing this matter that affects the credibility of the Oakland ISD.”

State Senator Nancy Cassis, a former public school educator, met with Interim Superintendent Dan Austin and urged him to clear-up all issues related to the fiscal controversy surrounding the Oakland ISD and to provide the information requested by Rep. Johnson and government agencies.

“Parents and taxpayers deserve answers,” said Cassis.
